

A New World View: Vienna's Contribution to European Culture 1890-1935

March 19th 20th & 21st.

The BRLSI is delighted to offer our second Vienna Symposium following the great success of our first event in 2019.

We have a full programme with outstanding speakers who will throw light on a turbulent and exciting period in European culture that had an influence we still feel today.

Stefan Zweig's connection to Bath; music in secessionist Vienna; Freud and the genesis of psychoanalysis; the ground-breaking work of Wittgenstein; the influence of the Vienna Circle; modernist women writers on Vienna; the art of Oskar Kokoschka and how a new direction for architecture and urban planning took root in the city – all feature in a richly varied programme.

Symposium Passes for the entire three days are £20 for BRLSI members and £40 for non-members.

Places are limited so click this link to book one:

Book a Symposium Pass Here

Programme.

Friday March 19th

7.30pm (UK) - The Vienna of Yesterday – Stefan Zweig is not 'at home'
Dr. Richard Stamp, Bath Spa University

Saturday March 20th

10.30am (UK) - Vienna's Second Spring: Architecture and Urbanism 1919- 1935
Dr Ruth Hanisch - Dortmund University

12.00 noon (UK) - Oskar Kokoschka. Bad Boy of Viennese Modernism

Dr Bernadette Reinhold, Director, Oskar Kokoschka Centre, University of Applied Arts Vienna

5.00pm (UK) - 'Marionettes gesticulating on a badly-lit stage': modernist women write Vienna
(Dr Faith Binckes - Bath Spa University)

7.00pm (UK) - Music in Secessionist Vienna: reconciling the high and the low
Dr Charles Wiffen - Bath Spa University

Sunday March 21st

12.00 noon (UK) - Vienna and Wittgenstein's Tractatus
Dr. Arif Ahmed, Faculty of Philosophy, University of Cambridge

2.00pm (UK) - Freud and the Genesis of Psychoanalysis

Prof. Stephen Frosh - Department of Psychosocial Studies at Birkbeck, University of London

5.00pm (UK) - The Vienna Circle and its Significance
David Edmonds, author and broadcaster

6.00pm (UK) - Plenary Session

Chaired by Dr. Richard Stamp, Bath Spa University

